Day 6 – 8, October 23-25: Torres del Paine

Three days at leisure to enjoy life at this amazing destination. Hotel Las Torres has a privileged location at the foot of the Torres del Paine, the main feature of the park, which UNESCO declared an international Biosphere Reserve in 1978. The hotel is one of the most outstanding in the region. From someone who has been there many times, it is very hard to explain just how beautiful and special it is; this sojourn will leave its imprint on you forever. Its history as a cattle farm can still be seen through the daily operations of the organic garden, stables, horses and gauchos. It proudly maintains the principles of its founders, “to share the warmth of the people and the customs of Patagonia” (Breakfast, Lunch, and Dinner included).

The entrance to Los Glaciares National Park is located at the western tip of the Magallanes Peninsula. From there, we begin our journey along the boardwalk circuit, which has a total length of 3 km. The boardwalks are at different levels and allow us to contemplate the glacier's front from various perspectives and viewpoints.

From the port of Punta Bandera, located 47 kilometers from El Calafate, we begin our navigation along the North Arm of Lake Argentino. We cross Boca del Diablo toward the Upsala Channel, sailing among the large icebergs that calve from the face of the Upsala Glacier. We then enter the Spegazzini Channel, and shortly after enjoy our first view of the Seco Glacier. We continue navigating to the front of the Spegazzini Glacier, where we also admire the Heim Sur and Peineta glaciers. We disembark at Spegazzini Base and begin a walk through the forest to the Spegazzini Refuge.

Day 13 – October 30: Buenos Aires

Today, discover the city of Buenos Aires. The 9 de Julio Avenue is the widest avenue in the world, with up to seven lanes in each direction. Along its 1 km route are the Obelisk and the statue of Don Quixote. Avenidas Corrientes is often compared to Times Square, with many theaters, restaurants and shops. It is a lively area that lights up at night. At the Plaza de Mayo we visit the striking Cathedral and Cabildo (Old City Hall). One of the most traditional neighborhoods of Buenos Aires, San Telmo, is characterized by its old colonial houses and cobblestoned streets.

La Boca neighborhood, located in the south of the city, is filled with colorful zinc houses that were originally the refuge and home for immigrants and artists. Puerto Madero is the old port of the city, which has turned into one of the most exclusive residential areas in Buenos Aires. Here you will find many of the best restaurants. We continue to Recoleta, where you can take a walk through the beautiful Recoleta Cemetery and see the final resting place of Eva Perón (Evita).

Gala Dinner & Tango Show – Gala Tango's French architecture and decor is reminiscent of Argentina in the 1930's. There is an impressive Carrara marble bar and many refined details that make this place unique and classy. The Tango show has a limited number of seats to insure an intimate and private environment. Before the show, it is possible to participate in a tango class. Gala serves gourmet cuisine and also has an extensive wine list featuring some of the best bottles from Argentina. Dine, dance, and enjoy the best in tango and folklore.

Breakfast and Dinner included.

Day 14 – October 31: Buenos Aires - El Ombú de Areco

Today we'll escape the city for a taste of traditional Argentine country life at Estancia El Ombú de Areco, a beautiful historic estancia in the countryside outside Buenos Aires.

Spend the day enjoying the relaxed pace of the Argentine campo, surrounded by open landscapes and the traditions of the gaucho. We'll have a leisurely lunch at the estancia, followed by a choice of horseback riding or a carriage ride through the property.
